The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony with Branches at the most important places in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased so rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only branches of Corporations whose head quarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactorily with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to the Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Banks of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency, will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradoric system (so far as money is concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transaction of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shews that the largest profits are obtained by those Public Companies which possess an interested local body of Proprietors or Shareholders whose support naturally forms a chief element of remunerative success.

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere, who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of Messrs. DENT & Co.

HONGKONG VOLUNTEERS.

THE following General order relative to the rank of Officers is published for the information of the Corps:—

"Horse Guards, 16th August, 1864.—His Royal Highness the field-marshal Commanding-in-chief has received her Majesty's commands to promulgate to the army the following regulation which has been decided on, in concurrence with the Secretary of State for War, viz.:—The order, as contained in her Majesty's book of regulations, for the relative rank of the officers of the army and Royal Marines, with those of the militia, yeomanry, and volunteers, shall be held applicable also to officers of colonial militia, yeomanry, and volunteer corps, which have been, or may hereafter be, raised by the legislature of the colonies, with the sanction of her Majesty the Queen, during the period of their embodiment and service with her Majesty's regular forces.—By command of his Royal Highness the field-marshal Commanding-in-chief. A. H. Horsford, Deputy-Adjutant-General."

2 The Commandant, with the unanimous approval of the Committee named in Rules Nos. 13 and 16, deems it advisable to place on record, that it is not desirable for any Member of the Corps to hold communication with the Public Press on Regimental matters without the sanction of the Commanding Officer; and the Proprietors of the local newspapers would further the interests of the "Hongkong Volunteers" more, by only allowing allusion in their columns to such matters in connexion with the Corps as come publicly under their notice as journalists, i.e. Parades, Prize Meetings, Organization, &c.

3 The Prize Meeting for 1864 having been fixed to take place on the 2nd and 3rd December, Honorary and Effective Members are requested to arrange the Rifle practice accordingly. The Prize Committee is requested to meet the Commandant on Tuesday, the 1st November, at Government Buildings at 3 P.M.

4 The proposed visit of the Corps to Macao, as agreed on by their Excellencies the Governors of Hongkong, and Macao, has been settled for early on Saturday the 19th November, returning early on the 21st. Winter Clothing and Side Arms.

5 In consequence of the Regatta, the Parade ordered for Tuesday the 1st November, is postponed to the 9th November, on which date Winter Clothing will be taken into wear. All Members whether "passed" or not, are requested to attend this parade and each man will be supplied with 10 Rounds of blank Cartridge.

THE COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA.

THIS Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing a site in the Colony of Hongkong for Docks and constructing Docks and erecting suitable Premises thereon for carrying on the Business of Building or Docking and Repairing Steamers and Sailing Vessels, and for the purchase of the Docks now owned and carried on at Whampoa by Messrs. T. HUNT & CO. with the Appurtenances Plant and Good-will of the Docking Business of that Firm.

It is proposed to register, the Company as one of Limited Liability either under the Imperial Act or under any Ordinance which the local Legislature may pass enabling local Companies to do so, the property of the Company in the meantime being vested in the Trustees, and the Deed of Settlement of the Company, now in course of preparation, is being framed in accordance with this intention.

The very considerable increase in the number of Vessels employed in what may be termed local trade, or in voyages that either originate or terminate, at Hongkong, in addition to the great quantity of tonnage visiting the Port, from all quarters of the World, afford ample scope for the remunerative operations of Dock Companies, in addition to those which are already in existence.

Application has been made to Her Majesty's Government with reference to obtaining a site for the proposed Docks in the Colony, and the project has been favourably entertained, steps being in progress to facilitate this object, the necessary preliminary investigations as to the suitable character of the proposed site having been conducted and satisfactorily reported upon, by Mr. S. B. RAWLING.

Liberal support has been promised to the undertaking which it is contemplated must necessarily prove a very remunerative one.

Further applications for Shares can till further notice be addressed to the Undersigned from whom forms of application and all particulars can be obtained.

VICTORIA REGATTA CLUB.

THE Proprietors of the S.S. Feiseen, having with great kindness placed that vessel at the disposal of the Committee, she will be at Pedders Wharf at 1 P.M. on each of the Regatta days, and remain there until 1.30 P.M., at which hour she will leave the Wharf and proceed to the S. S. Emeu.

All Ladies and Gentlemen who have received invitations, as well as those Members of the Hongkong Club and Victoria Regatta Club who are subscribers to the Ball Fund can avail themselves of a passage on board this Steamer.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, 2ND NOVEMBER, 1864.

THE frigate Severn will proceed to Amoy on Friday. How long she will remain there will depend upon circumstances. She will proceed thence to Japan, where we understand Commodore Montresor will assume the command of the fleet, Admiral Kuper's time having expired.

THE Steamer Feiseen will remain alongside Pedder's Wharf from 1 to half past 1 o'clock today, and will convey those Ladies and Gentlemen who have received invitations to the S. S. Emeu to view the Regatta.

WE have advices per Magenta from Nagasaki to the 25th October. Messrs. Jardine's steamer Carthage had been sold to Prince Fozen for the sum of $120,000 Mexican. The money had been paid and the vessel duly delivered. She is a finely constructed vessel, but she is about twelve years old and has her original boilers.

The Bahama, Rona, City of Nantes, Tuping Nyo, and Monitor, were all at Nagasaki nicely painted up and made clean in the hope of attracting purchasers. Palm oil is clearly the article to apply in such cases. It should however be used judiciously and not dabbed on as though it were plaister of Paris, as was the case with the sale of the Ly-ee-moon, where the Minister of one of the Treaty Powers, having acted as broker in the affair, actually pocketed $60,000 by naming the wrong amount of purchase money to both vendor and vendee.

WE see from the Shanghai Recorder that a rumor is current to the effect that Sir Rutherford Alcock has been recalled. We think the truth must be that His Excellency has been nominated to succeed Sir F. Bruce at Peking. The contrast between the diplomacy of the two men is so great,—the failure of the one so palpable—the success of the other so undoubted—that we think there can hardly be two opinions upon their respective merits as Oriental diplomatists.

If Sir Rutherford should be appointed to Peking, our readers may rely that he will inculcate the fact into the Imperial cabinet, that they have responsibilities which it requires something besides their own option to release them from. We cannot be for ever driving the Medo from the gate, thereby encouraging a government in its callous negligence of its duties; allowing the Empire meanwhile to crumble into anarchy.

THE intelligence per Tigre must appear rather unintelligible to many of our readers. The following remarks from the London "Spectator" may serve to throw some light on the American news. It must be remembered however that the Spectator is strongly Federal.

The fact of the Liverpool Cotton market having declined two pence, can only be explained by well grounded expectations of peace.

The great news of the week,—news, however, on which the Times correspondent at New York has cast a shadow of apparently rather arbitrary doubt,—is the evacuation of Atlanta by the Confederates, and its occupation by a portion of General Sherman's army under General Slocum. The despatches which brought this news were published by the Government as official on the 3rd of September,—having been received on the 2nd,—and because no confirmation of them was received by the evening of the same day, when the Peruvian left, the Times New York correspondent threw doubt upon their authenticity. Hitherto all the official despatches of the Government have been thoroughly confirmed by subsequent reports, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt of this, which tallies with our previous news; for it was added that a great battle had been fought by the body of General Sherman's army with the retreating army of General Hood at East Point, on the Macon road, in which the Confederate General Harde was killed and both sides suffered heavily. Now, we know that General Sherman had intervened between Atlanta and Macon, and that Hood would be forced to cut his way through the opposing army at all hazards in order keep up his only remaining line of supplies. Unofficial reports asserted that General Hood's retreating army was cut in two with fearful loss, but of this the Government despatches gave no confirmation.

Fort Morgan, the last Confederate defence of Mobile Bay, surrendered unconditionally to Admiral Farragut on the 23rd August, with 1,500 prisoners, 100 cannon, and provisions for six months. The long defence which General Page had boasted that he would make when he so heavily censured Colonel Anderson for the surrender of Fort Gaines came to nothing. "Fort Morgan," says Admiral Farragut, "never fired a gun after the commencement of the bombardment, and the advanced picket of our army was actually upon its glacis.

The thrice repeated Confederate attack on the Weldon Railroad on the 25th of August ended unsuccessfully, for though it drove the Federals from their weaker position at Reams station, and so cleared about four miles of railroad out of the eight which they had occupied, it left the principal works of the Federals on the railroad nearer Petersburg entirely untouched,—and the solid occupation of four miles cuts off the line of supply with the South as effectually as if they were eight. The battle was an exceedingly bloody one, resulting, it is said, in the loss of some 3,000 men to the Federals and of at least 5,000 to their assailants. It is probably due to this alarming occupation of the principal line of communication between Richmond and the South that the Confederates have again retreated from the Potomac down the Shenandoa Valley, followed by Sheridan's army. At the last report Confederate General Early's rear guard was between Winchester and Martinsburg.

Muller and his train—Inspector Tanner, the cabman, and Mr. Death—are at last in this country, having arrived by the Etna on Thursday at Queenstown, whence Muller was to be conveyed to London. The preliminary examination in New York led to no new light, his counsel having nothing to do in fact except to taunt the British Lion, like the young Columbian in "Martin Chuzzlewit"—"Freedom's hand once twisted in his mane he lies a corse before me, and the eagles of the great republic laugh ha! ha!" a style of argument which appears as we have explained elsewhere, to be only too popular in New York, but scarcely germane to the subject. Muller, however, made a private statement to the correspondent of the Star to the effect that he bought the hat a year ago, and purchased the watch and chain on London Bridge just before his embarkation—a rash statement, we fear, not likely to conduce to a successful defence. The newspaper correspondents from Cork telegraph the most momentous particulars about Muller. He was sea-sick on the 4th inst. at 8.15 a.m. At 8.20 he tried hot brandy and water, which was exchanged at 8.25 for cold brandy and water which restored him completely, and his appetite was admirable afterwards. He read "Pickwick" on board with much enjoyment, taking particular interest in Bob Sawyer and "the Shepherd." He was not so well satisfied with "David Copperfield" but thought Littimer's character well drawn.

The Chicago Convention nominated General M'Clellan as its candidate for the next Presidency by a large majority, 202 for M'Clellan against only 23 for Governor Seymour, on a strong Union platform, one of the resolutions asserting that "it is the aim and object of the Democratic party to preserve the Federal Union and the rights of the States unimpaired," and again another "that in the future as in the past we will adhere with unswerving fidelity to the Union under the Constitution." The platform also includes an effort for early cessation of hostilities, "with a view to an ultimate Convention of all the States, or other peaceable means, to the end that at the earliest practicable moment, peace may be restored on the basis of the Federal Union of the States;" but General M'Clellan is certainly pledged not to give up the Union, and, as far as we can judge, the popular feeling adheres to this one point as firmly as ever. The Democrats will pay any price for Union, will guarantee slavery, will welcome subserviency, infamy, or anything else, but a very small proportion even of them will admit the thought of disunion.

The impression that appears to prevail in England that President Lincoln's last draft is a mere brutum fulmen, and that all things are preparing for peace in compliance with the hints of Governor Seymour and the Chicago Democrats, is, we believe, one of the most complete delusions which the wishes of the people of this country have ever conjured up. A Pennsylvanian paper, the Harrisburgh Telegraph of the 25th August, states that since the fall of Fort Sumter the recruiting has never gone on so earnestly or so rapidly in Pennsylvania,—that up to noon on Tuesday, 23rd August, "there were over thirty thousand soldiers returned to the Assistant-Provost-Marshal General in the Eastern and Western Departments of the States by the different Provost-Marshals of the Commonwealth as having been mustered into the service of the United States,"—and it goes on to say that a very brief prolongation of the time allowed by the original order for the draft would fill up the full quota of Pennsylvania without any draft at all. And this, remember, is considered to be nearly the most pacific and discontented State of the Northern Federation. If such things happen in Pennsylvania, where will the Peace Democrats find popular support?

The Federals have one very effective marine ally whom the laws of neutrality cannot reach—the barnacles. It appears that the torpedoes with which Mobile Bay and Charleston Harbour are thickly laid are canisters of powder provided with a percussion cap communicating with an external hammer, which is so contrived as to fall heavily on the canister and explode the cap whenever a passing ship drags along with it a string and float which are connected with the hammer. But the barnacles gather so rapidly on these contrivances as to hamper the action of the hammer. In fact they intervene and pad the torpedoes with themselves,—an immense advantage to "Uncle Sam's web feet," which are thereby protected from many a convulsive tingling, blistering, and sudden loss of toes.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.

In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to:—

Suez,	$460
Malta,	510
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	530
Southampton,	550
Reserved Rates for Single Persons.
Suez,	$929
Malta,	1,020
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,060
Southampton,	1,100
Reserved Rates for Married Couples.
Suez,	$1,160
Malta,	1,260
Gibraltar,	1,348
Marseilles,	1,348
Southampton,	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32
Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

By Order of the Managing Directors,

EXTRACTS.

Famous Regiments of the British Army.

Mr. Davenport Adams has done for the army, and done well, what has long since and in many different forms been done for the navy of England. It is true that in the latter case the task is far more limited in extent and less difficult of execution, besides appealing directly to the prevailing national sentiment of pride in the "wooden walls"—now so completely things of the past. A ship in and out of commission scarcely outlives a generation, and her history is usually confined to that of a few great naval engagements about the same time, or one or two celebrated single combats. The old tradition by which a ship of the same name was always on the stocks directly sentence of dissolution was pronounced against any famous seventy four or frigate has been abandoned, and it is not possible now for the associations of our old Bellerophons, Arethusas or Shannons to be revived in the shape of the monstrous masses of iron which now pass current for ships. The old fighting seventy-fours may still exist for many years as blockships, or be cut down, lengthened, and iron-plated, or be subjected to any of the operations in which the Admiralty occasionally delights to spend enormous sums with disproportionate results, but all the associations of the English navy are gone except those connected with the abstract qualities of the English sailor. But it is very different with regard to the army. There are regiments now in the service which under almost identically the same organization as at the present time have served for a couple of centuries in all parts of the globe. To do justice to the history of such a regiment requires no little research and judicious compression, while the difficulty of selection from the numerous corps of nearly balanced claims to distinction must have been considerable. Mr. Davenport Adams has only included nine in his present work, and even with the most careful condensation the record of their services extends over a closely printed volume of more than three hundred pages. There is scarcely a battalion in the British army whose history would not supply ample material for a brilliant romance of fact, but to the nine chosen by Mr. Adams the distinction of being primi inter pares must at least be conceded. It is just over the two centuries since the nucleus was formed of "that great and renowned army which has in the present century marched triumphant into Madrid and Paris, Canton and Candahar." The first corps raised in England in accordance with our present system, and in fact the first germ of an English standing army, was the Coldstream Guards, raised by General Monk at Coldstream on the Borders. In the course of a few years, although Charles II. was compulsorily cautious in his steps towards the establishment of a standing army, several others were added, and by 1665 the British infantry consisted of four regiments besides the Guards,—the 1st, Royals; the 2nd, Queen's; the 3rd, or Buffs; and the 4th, or King's Own. Before the close of the century a grenadier company furnished with hand grenades had been added to each regiment, bayonets had been introduced, several regiments of fusiliers originally intended to protect artillery had been raised, and the principle of a standing army of considerable numbers fairly established. Light horse were introduced in 1745, and lancers in the reign of George III. It is within the last few years, however, that the greatest changes have taken place in the British army, both in morale and material. But the improvements of modern science in gunnery and the introduction of totally new systems of musketry need not break off the power of associations, or destroy the memory of triumphs achieved under far different conditions, and advancement and elevation of the soldier himself only renders him more capable of becoming acquainted with and appreciating the traditions of his corps.—

Of course the post of honour is accorded by Mr. Adams to the eventful history of the 1st Royals. It has a definite history extending to an earlier date than that of any other regiment, and in addition can fairly claim to inherit the traditions of more than one body of men which had centuries before rendered Scotch gallantry proverbial throughout Continental Europe. Close upon a thousand years ago the Carlovingian monarchs had a Scotch body-guard, in the Crusades Louis IX. was attended by 100 Scotch guards, and in the fifteenth century upwards of 7,000 Scotch served under the Dauphin of France against the English, and to them was principally entrusted the defence of the country against the English. They were nearly annihilated by the Duke of Bedford in 1423, but they had gained a reputation for valour which rendered a Scotch contingent an object of most eager contention by every belligerent in Europe. They never again fought in such force in a French field, though the Scotch body guard was always kept up; but in 1590 a body of Scots served against the League under Henry Quatre. In the early part of the next century the actual nucleus of the 1st Royals assumed definite form. A large body of Scotch troops were attracted by the fame of Gustavus Adolphus, and fought against Russia and Poland during ten or more years. They were joined in 1625 by a troop of Scots who had been fighting in Germany under their Colonel, Sir John Hepburn, and for another ten years these gallant free companions marched well-nigh throughout Europe, from the Elbe to the Danube, always getting in the way of the hardest blows. In 1635 the remnant joined the forces of the Duke of Saxe Weimar, and served the campaign of that year in conjunction with their compatriots in the French service. In 1636 Sir John Hepburn was killed, and was succeeded by Colonel James Hepburn, whose place on his meeting with the same fate was filled by Lord James Douglas. For the next twenty years Le Regiment Douglas, then 8,000 strong, remained faithful to French allegiance though the majority of French mercenaries had gone over to Spain, and in 1661 at the request of Charles II., they came to England, and obtained rank as the 1st Royal Scotch Regiment in the English Army. After serving for several years in Ireland and subsequently again with the French in Holland, it was finally incorporated in the English service in time to take a prominent part in the battle of Sedgemoor. In 1680 the Royals were despatched to Holland, in 1692 they fought splendidly at Steenkirk under a Douglas, who lost his life in recovering a captured regimental colour. They fought again at Landen, and took the leading part in the greatest triumph that had attended English arms for more than two centuries—the storming of Namur. Even the coldblooded William of Orange was moved to enthusiasm. Laying his hand on the shoulder of the Elector of Bavaria, he exclaimed, "Look! look at my brave English!" At Schellenberg, Blenheim, Ramillies, and Malplaquet the Royals were always in the thick of the fray. Culloden, Corsica, Toulon, the conquest of Canada, the capture of the Spanish West Indies, were all shared in by one or more battalions of the Royals. In the present century a glorious campaign in Egypt—whence the sphinx that figures in the colours of the Royals—the capture of the Danish West Indies, Corunna, the entire Peninsular war, the American war, Quatre Bras, Waterloo, the Maratta war, the Canadian rebellion, and the Crimea, complete the long battle-roll of 1st Royals.

The history of the 3rd Buffs is scarcely less remarkable. The regiment traces its origin to the English troops employed under the Earl of Leicester, Sir Philip Sidney, and others in the Low Countries during the reign of Elizabeth, and Mr. Adams finds constant illustrations of his subject in the eloquent pages of Mr. Lothrop Motley's "United Netherlands." The field of Zutphen was fought by the men to whom the 3rd Buffs are the unquestionable heirs. In 1665 the "Holland Regiment" was recalled to England, and formally amalgamated with the British infantry forces. For some time they were known as Prince George of Denmark's Regiment, but ultimately their buff waistcoats, breeches, and stockings obtained for them the name by which now go, though the uniform from which they derived it has long since been abandoned. In the Peninsular war the Buffs gained their most imperishable laurels. At Albuera the regiment lost no less than 644 officers and men, one of the regimental colours was shot from the staff and the Ensign who bore it severely wounded, but he tore off the flag and concealed it under his body until the fight was over.

The 4th, or King's Own, owe their embodiment to the cession of Tangier to England in 1661, and the subsequent determination of Charles II. to defend it from the desperate attacks of the Moors. A regiment was levied for the purpose by the Earl of Ossory, and in four months it sailed for Tangier. The fort was ultimately abandoned, and after fighting at Sedgemoor the "Tangiers" was unhappily compelled to undertake the inglorious duty of preserving order at the executions during the Bloody Assize. They took part in the battle of the Boyne, led by a son of old Duke Schomberg, but their veritable baptême de feu was not until Dundee, when they made a sullen and desperate retreat in the face of Luxembourg's triumphant hosts. At Namur, together with the Royals, they formed part of the storming force under "Salamander" Cutts. Between 1733 and 1710 the the 4th served, strangely enough, as marines, and took part in that capacity in the capture of Gibraltar in the former year. At Falkirk Muir they and the Royals were the only troops that remained steadfast. We cannot follow them through their subsequent campaigns. Perhaps their crowning glory was the storming of Badajoz, the marvellous description of which by Sir W. Napier is quoted by Mr. Adams.

The histories of the 23rd Fusiliers, the 42nd Highlanders—or Black Watch—are both given at full length, and the dashing 88th, the Connaught Rangers, famous for their extraordinary brilliancy of charge, are the last of the six foot regiments selected by Mr. Adams. The Scots' Greys and the Enniskillingers bring Mr. Adams's volume to a close. The history of the former is, perhaps more popularly known than that of any other English regiment. Although it was not until 1701 that they were mounted on the white horses from which they derived their name, the troops of cavalry commanded by Claverhouse and Dalziel in 1679 were the origin of the regiment. Their charge at Waterloo is one of the best known features of the battle, and celebrated for ever by the cry of Napoleon as he saw them riding through the shattered masses of his last attack, "A present c'est fini!" The Enniskillingers raised by William III. in 1688 have a brilliant history on which to look back. They charged with the Greys at Waterloo, and forty years after the two charged again together at Balaclava.

As we have said, Mr. Adams has done his work well, and deserves the thanks of the nation as well as those of the regiments whose glorious achievements he has recorded in a connected form. It is quite well that the English people should be reminded that England, after all, is a military power of some slight weight, and that there have been days when we have taken a very decided line in European politics without caring so very much whether any particular great Power would promise to protect us or not. There is no doubt, too, that besides the noble emulation which gives to each nationality united under the British flag a separate and distinct incentive to daring and good conduct in the field, the regimental esprit de corps is a feeling which can always be appealed to with material results. Mr. Adams quotes incidentally from a speech of the late Prince Consort, delivered when presenting fresh colours to the 23rd, the last paragraph of which bears so directly on the object of the present volume that we reproduce it:—

"Receive these colours; one, emphatically called the Queen's,—let it be a pledge of your loyalty to your Sovereign, and of obedience to the laws of your country; the other, more especially the regimental one,—let that be a pledge of your determination to maintain the honour of your regiment. In looking at the one, you will think of your Sovereign; in looking at the other, you will think of those who have fought, bled, and conquered before you!"—Spectator.

Closing Proceeding of the Chicago Convention.

JOYOUS SPEECHES AND RESOLUTIONS

THE VOTE ON THE NOMINATION.

George B. Maclellan Declared the Unanimous Choice of the Conventio nfor the Presidency.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE CONVENTION.

Chicago, August 30.—The Democratic Wigwam was again densely packed to-day, and the crowd outside was even greater than before.

The Convention was called to order to 10 o'clock. The proceedings opened with prayer. Wyckliff said that the delegates of the Northwest were of opinion that circumstances may occur between now and the 4th March, for the Democracy of the country to meet in convention, and therefore moved that the Convention should not be dissolved by adjournment, but remain subject to the call of Executive National Commitee.

A communication was then read from the Democratic National Committee embodying a resolution adopted by the Committee the substance of which is as follows. That it is the deliberate conviction of this Committee that had Stephen A. Douglass been spared, his gigantic grasp of mind, taken in connection with his declaration that "War is disunion," would long since have restored the power of the Federal compact and avoided the terrible loss of life for which nothing can compensate.

The President then stated the question before the Convention to be on ordering the previous question, and it was ordered, without a dissent.

The vote was then taken by States, the chairman of each delegation announcing the vote when the States were called. Connecticut and Ohio having been passed for a moment, the vote stood 162 for McClellan, the remainder scattering, when different delegations began to change their votes and the final result was as follows:

Maine—McClellan, 7; New Hampshire—do., 5; Vermont—do., 5; Massachusetts—do., 12 Island—do., 4; Connecticut—do., 6; New York—do., 33; New Jersey—do., 7; Pennsylvania—do., 26; Delaware—T. H. Seymour, 3; Maryland—do., 7; Kentucky—McClellan, 11; Ohio—McClellan 15, Seymour 6; Indiana—McClellan 9½ Seymour 3½; Illinois—McClellan, 16; Michigan—do., 8; Missouri—McClellan 7, Seymour 4; Minnesota—McClellan, 4; Wisconsin—do., 8; Iowa—do., 8; Kansas—do., 3; California—do., 5; Oregon—do., 3. Total—McClellan, 202½ Seymour, 23½.

Several delegations having cast some votes for Horatio Seymour, when the call of the roll was made, Gov. Seymour remarked that some gentlemen had done him honor the to name him for the nomination. It would be affection for him to say that their expression of preference did not give him pleasure, but he owed it to himself to say that many months ago he advised his friends in New York, that for various reasons, both private and public, he could not be a candidate. Having made that announcement, he would do great injustice to those friends to allow his name to be used now.

After some further remarks he announced the vote which was received with tremendous applause, the delegates and the audience rising to their feet. The cheers were continued for several minutes.

Mr. Vallandigham, getting the floor, said that from the first moment he had been animated by but one sentiment in this Convention—"Peace to the end"—that there may be peace in the land. He then moved that the nomination of McClellan be declared to be the unanimous choice of the Convention.

Keon of New York seconded the resolution, and remarked that we are in the midst of a bloody revolution, that if the present Administration should be continued, no man of note here would be safe in his liberties and life. He exhorted all to join with one heart and as one man in their efforts to overthrow it.

Powell also briefly addressed the Convention, pledging his most earnest efforts for the success of the ticket, and expressing his firm conviction that the ticket will come out of the contest triumphant, the liberties of the people would be restored, and the prosperity and happiness of the country secured.

Other prominent gentlemen followed in brief speeches, reviewing the history of the country under Democratic rule in comparison with the acts of the present Administration, and promising the return of a lasting peace and national happiness with the success of McClellan.

The question was then taken on making the nomination unanimous, and it was declared carried. The shouts from the delegates, and from the audience who responded, were deafening.

Wickliffe offered a resolution that Kentucky expects that the first act of McClellan, when elected, shall be to open Lincoln's prison doors and set the captives free. Carried unanimously.

Wickliffe said that many of the best and most loyal citizens of Kentucky—and among them 20 or 30 ladies—are now imprisoned in Louisville, in damp, dirty cells, with only straw to lie upon and the commonest prison fare, and that the newspapers of Louisville are forbidden to make the slightest allusion to this terrible state of affairs. He now proclaimed it, at the risk of his liberty and perhaps of life.

Cox moved to proceed to the nomination of a candidate for Vice President. Carried.

Pendleton, Voorhies, George H. Cass, James Guthrie, Augustus Dodge of Iowa, John Phelps of Missouri, and J. D. Caton of Illinois were put in nomination. The first ballot resulted as follows: Guthrie, 65½; Pendleton, 54; Voorhies, 13; Cass, 26; Dodge, 9; Caton, 16; Powell, 32½; Phelps, 8; Blank, one-half vote.

On the second ballot, when New York was called, Judge Parker said that, having cast 33 votes for Powell against his wishes, New York now cheerfully gave them to Pendleton. Other candidates were then withdrawn, and Pendleton received the unanimous vote of the Convention.

On motion, a comittee of one from each State was appointed to inform the candidates of their nomination and request their acceptance.

Tilden of New York moved that the same ratio of representation that prevailed in this Convention should be the ratio for the next Convention. Adopted.

On motion, it was resolved that the Democracy of the country be requested to meet in their different cities and hold mass meetings, on the 17th of September the anniversary of the Federal Constitution.

A vote of thanks to the officers and nine cheers for the ticket were given, and the Convention adjourned, subject to the call of the National Committee.
